The Iceland Academy had an instant exhibition at the harbour on saturday. The work exhibited was the result of work done by 1st and 2nd year students over the last 6 weeks. Once a year the students are given an option to select from a variety of projects on a totally interdisciplinary basis. The projects offered this year included Slow Design, Total Theatre, Fashion Photography, What is it to be an Icelander?, Making a magazine, Man and Nature, Bookmaking, Internship, Sound as Medium, Animation Modelling. The exhibition was staged at the harbour front in trucks kindly supplied to us by a large truck company FLYTJANDI. The Academy has not yet got a site in Reykjavik despite there were made promises years ago when it was established by the conglomeration of various art colleges. Many of us would like to be positioned in the centre of town and the location of this event is one of the places that we would like as our home base. Hopefully this is a message to the major of Reykjavik City.
